End-to-end journey, captured from the running app

Green Basket · Rs.95,000 e-commerce redesign

Every screenshot in this report was taken by Playwright driving the real application: the production React client, the production tRPC routers, the real SOP gating, the real pricing and invoice arithmetic and the real PDF generator. Only Firestore and Cloud Storage are replaced — by in-memory doubles seeded at boot through those same routers — because this container holds no service-account credentials.

Reproduce it: `SIMULATION_MODE=1 npx playwright test`

Green Basket

Rajesh Kumar · rajesh@greenbasket.com

NEW

We run an organic grocery delivery service across Hyderabad with about 400 SKUs. Our current store is slow on mobile and we lose customers at checkout. We want a full e-commerce redesign with a faster catalogue, UPI-first checkout, and a dashboard our warehouse team can actually use.

Clay & Co Ceramics

Meera Nair · meera@clayandco.in

NEW

Small-batch pottery studio in Jubilee Hills. We sell through Instagram DMs right now and it does not scale. Looking for a simple store with inventory limits per piece, and a lookbook that does the work justice.

Deccan Coffee Roasters

Vikram Shetty · vikram@deccanroasters.com

NEW

We roast and ship speciality coffee subscriptions. Need recurring billing, a grind-size selector on the product page, and a way to pause a subscription without emailing us. Current Shopify setup cannot do the pause flow.

The SOP attached to this project, grouped by stage, with required steps marked and a done/total counter per stage.

A real mutation. The test toggles the box, reloads the page, and asserts the new state survived — proving it reached the server rather than only local component state.

11. The SOP refuses the move

1440 x 3194 px

Client review still has required steps open, so the move to Complete is refused and the outstanding items are named. The project is asserted not to have moved.

The CEO can move anyway. The override is recorded as an admin notification rather than happening silently.

ECOMMERCE. EXPLAINED

What to know before you sell online

The parts of running an Indian online store that most often catch a first-time owner out. Written from what we hit on real builds.

PAYMENTS

Razorpay and cash on delivery

Online payments need a Razorpay account in your business name, with KYC and a settlement bank account — the transaction fee is charged to you directly, not billed through us. COD needs the opposite kind of thinking: a confirmation step to cut false orders, and a reconciliation process for what the courier collects and remits. Most Indian stores launch with both and watch the split for the first quarter.

TAX

GST, and where it applies

The build price is exclusive of 18% GST, so a ₹99,000 Starter Store invoices at ₹1,16,820. Separately, your own product GST rates depend on HSN code and have to be right in the catalogue from day one — retro-fixing tax on live orders is painful! You supply the business and GST details; we wire them into invoicing and order documents.

LOGISTICS

Couriers, tracking and returns

A courier API integration turns an order into a shipment automatically and gives the customer live tracking, which removes most 'where is my order' support. Returns are the pain people under-plan: you need a stated window, a condition policy, and a refund path back through Razorpay. Courier integration, tracking and refunds start at the Growth tier.

CATALOGUE

Product data is the product

Search, filters, related products and every recommendation run off structured data, not photographs. Consistent categories, real variant attributes and honest stock counts do more for conversion than a redesign. This is also the issue we most often wait on — timelines run from receipt of assets, so a prepared catalogue directly shortens the build.

RECOVERY

Abandoned carts and lifecycle email

Most people who add to cart do not check out on that visit. A recovery sequence and the ordinary lifecycle mails — confirmation, shipped, delivered — are the cheapest revenue in ecommerce because the intent already exists. Both are included from the Growth tier.

MEASUREMENT

GA4 and Meta Pixel, set up properly

Installing a tag is not measurement. What matters is conversion events firing on the right actions with the right values, so you can see which channel actually pays for itself rather than guessing from the platform's own reporting. Tracking and conversion setup are part of the Growth tier's quality pass.

A signed-in Google account with no onboarding record is told so plainly rather than shown an empty portal.

26. The portal on a phone

390 x 7957 px

Horizontal overflow asserted at 0px. This is the check that caught the header not wrapping — 13px of overflow, since fixed.

27. Deliverables

1440 x 900 px

The last of the four admin routes walked while watching for uncaught errors and failed same-origin requests.

28. Keyboard navigation

1440 x 900 px

Tab from a cold load reaches a real control, with a visible focus ring.
